"Thus, for most of the time from about 30,000 to 18,000 years ago, the land bridge was nearly 1000 kilometers [620 miles] wide in a north-south direction." That's why©, in part, James Bond chose to paint Beringia 18,000 years ago, he said, the Bering land bridge, also called Beringia, connected Siberia and Alaska during the late ice age. These environments have contributed megafauna Àe animals weighing more than 100 pounds ". there are few such places on our planet that have a complex geography like paleo," Brigham-Grette said.To download a free digital version of the new map, visit here.Originally published in live Science. After that, the ice began to fall or levels of retreat and sea began to rise.At 18,000 years ago, Beringia was a relatively cold and dry place, with little tree cover. cover.
