With such a bountiful choice of great games for Android phones in the Google Play Store, how do you decide which Android apps to download this September? If you're anything like us, you know only too well that feeling of download regret. But don't worry — we're here to make it a thing of the past with our handpicked list of the best Android games available. Most are free, some cost a few bucks, and many are great to play online with friends when you can't get together in person — but all of them will keep you entertained at home or when you're out and about. You'll need internet connectivity for many of these games, but we've also gathered together some of the best Android games to play offline. There are many different kinds of games in the Play Store, so we've aimed to pick a good mix of categories, including first-person shooters (FPS), role-playing games (RPG), platformers, racing games, puzzles, strategy games, and more. At least one game on this list should suit your gaming needs. If you're looking for the best iPhone games, we've found those, too — but if you're gaming on an Android tablet or Android phone, then you're sure to find something to enjoy here. Make sure to check out these helpful guides: best Android apps, best iPhone apps Tick Tock: A Tale for Two ($3) Tick Tock: A Tale for Two is a fiendishly clever co-op puzzle game where you find yourself trapped in a mystical clockwork world and must race against the clock to solve puzzles and escape. There's a catch, though: The game is designed for two players and played simultaneously across two screens, either locally or remotely (if remote, you'll need a voice connection). Neither player has the full picture — instead, you each have half the clues on your screen, so you'll need to pool your resources and work as a team to solve the puzzles. You'll both need a copy of the game on your Android phone or tablet to play. The game is also available on iOS, and you can play cross-platform with friends. Google Play Animal Crossing: Pocket Camp This relaxing little sim lets you choose your own camper, cabin, or campsite and decorate it exactly how you want. Fill your camp with furniture that matches your style, and choose from over 1,000 pieces of furniture and more than 300 pieces of clothing and accessories. Along the way, you'll meet over 100 animals, each with their own quirky personality. Fulfill tasks for them, and your friendship will grow. There are also seasonal events where you can carry out special tasks and collect themed items for your camp! Animal Crossing: Pocket Camp is free to play, but there are in-app purchases available, though you can easily disable these if younger children are playing. Google Play Granny: Chapter Two The sequel to the popular survival-horror Granny. Granny: Chapter Two sees you locked in the house by Granny, but Grandpa's there too this time. He may not hear well, but he hits hard, while Granny, as usual, hears everything, even creaky floorboards. Your mission is to escape, but you'll need to be careful and quiet, and you've only got five days. This tense, spooky game features creepy, dark hallways, various hiding places (like under beds and in closets), and several difficulty levels for those who want a real challenge. You don't need to have played the first Granny game to enjoy this, but it definitely helps. Google Play Kombineria ($8) This old-school-style little platform puzzler from Atari is a must if you just can't get enough of creative problem-solving. The premise is pretty simple: Control multiple colored balls and combine them into one — all while the world you're in tries to eradicate the balls by way of devious traps and hazards. It's trickier than it sounds, as all the balls move simultaneously, so you'll need your wits about you. There are perilous hazards waiting around every corner. But different balls boast their own abilities, which could help you overcome obstacles and solve puzzles. With over 300 increasingly difficult levels, this game provides a real challenge, and the cool neon visuals and electronic audio soundtrack add to the old-school vibe. There's a surprisingly deep, emotional storyline at the heart of the game, too, making Kombineria well worth the price of entry. Google Play Infinity Ops Want to take on other teams in PvP combat or stare down enemies solo in a dystopian cyberpunk world? Infinity Ops is set in the distant future during a time of interplanetary warfare. With gorgeously colorful, neon-strewn cyberpunk 3D graphics, it looks good and plays even better as you take on foes and other teams with a huge array of weapons, from laser machine guns to plasma rifles. There are even jetpacks so you can soar in the skies! Create a clan and invite fellow users or friends, interact with gravity to boost your speed and agility, and choose from various classes, each boasting its own features and abilities. This sci-fi FPS is loads of fun, and it's free to play, too. Google Play Apex Legends Mobile EA The legendary strategy battle royale shooter is now on mobile, specifically designed for touchscreen. Apex Legends Mobile features the most advanced battle royale combat on a phone, though there's no crossplay with the console or PC versions. In the Apex Legends universe, in this free-to-play shooter, you can create a team with up to two friends, compete with other players, and enjoy fast-paced FPS, TPS, and combat action. There's a huge array of exotic weaponry and equipment to choose from, including almost every gun you could ever want or need — plus a huge cast of Legends, each with their own unique skills and abilities that you'll need to master in order to dominate. Take on other teams in PvP battles, join forces with other players, and fight to survive in an ever-evolving world where new Legends are continuously introduced and new maps land regularly — as well as live events. Google Play Raid: Shadow Legends Raid: Shadow Legends is one of the most popular dark-fantasy RPGs on Android. Set in the world of Teleria, you must recruit the forces of Light and Darkness to fight together to save the world. Choose from over 400 warriors and 14 playable factions, build up your team to fight against formidable foes. With epic boss battles, a PvP arena to challenge other teams, and a bastion to build and upgrade, there's plenty to keep you entertained. The expansive map covers 12 sprawling locations to explore, all rendered in beautiful 3D artwork. If you're into RPGs, you can't afford to miss Raid: Shadow Legends. Google Play Thimbleweed Park ($10) Fans of Oxenfree and Stranger Things will love this game from the creators of Monkey Island and Maniac Mansion. Thimbleweed Park is a rundown town in the middle of nowhere, home to an abandoned circus, a burnt-out factory, and a haunted hotel. When five seemingly unconnected individuals find themselves drawn to the town, they discover they're actually deeply connected — and somebody is watching. Will Franklin the ghost get to speak to his daughter again? Who is Agent Ray really working for? And how come nobody's bothered about the body under the bridge? All these questions and more will be answered. This is a deeply engaging neo-noir mystery set in 1987, packed with humor, a twisting story, and satisfying puzzles. With five fighting music, and original Japanese CV voices. Upgrade your heroes' skills and unlock enhanced combos, collaborate with other heroes to take on more powerful challenges, or try your hand at various PvP arena modes like combat trial or summit duel. Along the way, collect costumes for your character, date female characters, and become an expert cook. Light in Chaos: Sangoku Heroes is totally free to play, and it's easy to sink many hours into. Google Play Word Farm Adventure If there's one thing every list of the best Android games needs, it's a good word game. Word Farm Adventure is an addictive little word game that sees you swiping your way toward becoming the hero of the farm. Along the way, you'll solve word find challenges, crossword puzzles, word scramble missions, and more as you meet Rex the Dog, Perry the Parrot, and a whole menagerie of colorful characters. When you solve a puzzle, you're rewarded with coins and golden shovels, which you can spend to complete missions and rebuild the farm, fixing, painting, designing, and restoring it to its former glory. You'll even get a daily reward just for logging into the game. For those who love word games, it's one of the most fun games we've played. Word Farm Adventure is totally free to play but does have quite a few ads (most of which you can skip) and in-app purchases. You can upgrade to remove the ads for a small fee or turn off in-app purchases in your device's Restrictions menu if you like. Google Play Monocage ($5) Another puzzle game, this time with a twist: Everything takes place inside a mysterious cube. Each face of the cube is different, housing a unique world. It's up to you to figure out how these scenes (literally) connect together. Along the way, there's an intriguing story with a surprising twist, plus plenty of optical illusions. Unlock 15 achievements to earn Medals, and prepare to get stuck, as it'll definitely happen. While you can get helpful hints including Focus mode, which highlights key items, text hints, and video walkthroughs, there's nothing quite as satisfying as that feeling of genius when you finally crack the puzzle yourself. Monocage is a quirky little puzzler that quickly becomes immersive and is well worth the price of entry. Google Play Touchgrind Skate 2 The next game on our list is one with plenty of replayability. Touchgrind Skate 2 recreates the feeling of real-life skateboarding, with intricate, responsive controls and real physics simulation, plus gorgeous 3D graphics. There's a bit of a learning curve with this game, so you'll definitely need to pay attention to the tutorial videos and get plenty of practice before you fully master tricks. Pull off loads of tricks like ollies, impossibles, drops, stalls, darkslides, and more, with endless combos. There are three skateparks — you get the first one to roam around for free, with the other two available through in-app purchase. There are also three modes to choose from including Time-limited Competition mode, Jam Session mode, where you can complete 10 challenges and practice tricks, and Training mode. Touchgrind Skate 2 is completely free to play, with in-app purchases that unlock more of the game. Google Play Battlevio: Harbinger ($1) Battlevio: Harbinger is a sci-fi space exploration game that blends the excitement of real-time space battles with the intensity of roguelike, turn-based strategy. You play as a young commander tasked with venturing into space to protect humanity. Along the way, you'll need to manage your ship's resources, plan strategies, and employ tactics to keep your ship — and crew — safe, making important decisions about your fleet and equipment. Wield your weapons wisely and fortify your ship against enemy attacks as you battle for survival. With its retro pixel graphics and effects, don't be fooled into thinking this is a simple game. There's a lot going on, with new procedurally generated galaxies on each playthrough, plenty of gripping missions to complete, and new tech to discover along the way. Though it costs a little more than some games on our list, there are no in-app purchases or ads once you've bought the game, and there's a devoted community online you can join if you get really into it. Google Play Retro Bowl From its retro 8-bit graphics to its addictive and fun nature, Retro Bowl is your antidote to the post-Suber Bowl blues and is ideal for the armchair quarterback. Take on roster management — including handling the press and your players' egos — as you coach your team to the ultimate goal: To win the Retro Bowl. Backed with a happy little chip-tune soundtrack, you can manage everything from upgrading your stadium and training facilities to your team's attributes and hiring new staff. Or step out of the front office onto the gridiron and take part in the action. Each game is short and snappy, making Retro Bowl easy to pick up whenever you have a moment. Google Play Riptide GP: Renegade ($3) Forget racing in a plain old boring car. Riptide: GP Renegade takes the action to the water on illicit hydrojets. Set in a shadowy future where you've been cast out from the Riptide GP league, you'll jet off on illegal races through flooded ruins and dark city waterways to reclaim your title and reputation. The single-player mode sees you building a crew, taking down bosses, and unlocking new playable characters and vehicles as you go — and there's no such thing as being sensible in this game, it's all about taking risks and landing the best moves. Multiplayer mode features an eight-player online co-op as you race to top the leaderboard. You can even play couch co-op in split-screen mode with up to four friends. Google Play Chrono Trigger ($10) One of the most iconic RPGs of all time is a must-play on your Android phone. The mobile port of Square Enix's Chrono Trigger is based on the Nintendo DS version, and though the touch controls aren't the best, it's still worth your time. Developed by the creators of Final Fantasy, Dragon Ball, and Dragon Quest, Chrono Trigger is a time-traveling RPG that sees you play as the hero, Cronos, hurtling through time to save Marle, a young girl who has fallen into a rift created by a Telepod malfunction. The mobile version includes over 50 combos to take down enemies in battle, with higher resolution graphics and an updated soundtrack — and also features the Dimensional Vortex and Lost Sanctum dungeons. Google Play Pokémon Unite Pokémon Unite is a 5-on-5 team battle where you team up with friends and other players from around the world to see who can score the most points. Working together to beat the other team is key, and you can communicate with your team through quick chat messages, signals, and voice chat. Ensure your Pokémon are stylish and ready for battle in a variety of Holowear, then take on the other team in Unite Battles, where you can use Unite Moves, all-new Pokémon moves only available during these battles. As your skills improve, battle in ranked matches to top the leaderboard. Pokémon Unite is free to play and cross-platform, so you can play with friends on mobile or Switch. Google Play The Escapists: Prison Escape ($6) This prison escape sandbox game is hours of strategic fun — if you're into that sort of thing. You've done the crime, now you're doing the time. Speaking of which, the time has come to plan your escape. Swipe useful objects from guards, craft tools to aid your escape, and get to know your fellow inmates to create your own gang. Whatever you do, stay two steps ahead of the guards at all times, keep your head down, hide your contraband, and don't forget to attend roll-call! This is an addictive, tense game that's easy enough to get stuck in but provides a real challenge once you get going. There are over six themed prisons to explore and dozens of crafting combos to try out along the way. If you enjoy The Escapists, you can also pick up The Escapists 2 for $7. Google Play Grid Autosport ($10) Tired of Real Racing 3? Then Grid Autosport is the racer you need. It's an ad-free premium title — but you'll need a pretty powerful phone to run it, plus 3.9GB of storage space. This is as close as you'll get to console-quality racing on Android, with around 100 circuits to blaze through, and a huge selection of 100 cars too. The controls are fully customizable — so you can choose between Tilt, Wheel Touch, or Arrow Touch, or use a controller if that's more your style. There's plenty of longevity here too, with a huge range of disciplines, from Endurance and Demolition to Drift, Drag, and Street Races. Despite its fairly steep initial purchase price, you're paying for an ad-free experience without any future in-app purchases required, and the game includes all the DLC too. Google Play Final Fantasy XV Pocket Edition Final Fantasy XV Pocket Edition is the latest — and 15th — installment in the Final Fantasy series (with Final Fantasy XVI rumored to be releasing in summer 2023). This mobile version of the original console game divides the story into 10 chapters — you can play the first for free, with subsequent chapters available for purchase. Behind the cute animation lies a stunning soundtrack and a sprawling story that tells the tale of the Chosen King, Savior to the Star. The nations of Niflheim and Lucis have finally agreed to an armistice after years of fighting. Noctis, the crown prince of Lucis, is betrothed to Lady Lunafreya of Tenebrae, the youngest Oracle in history, as a symbol of his peace. The prince sets forth for his wedding on the eve of the signing ceremony, but unbeknown to him, many perils await him on his journey. Google Play CarX Drift Racing 2 CarX Drift Racing 2 is the sequel to one of the most popular drift games of all time, bringing a true-to-life racing game to mobile. With over 65 sports cars to unlock in single-player mode as well as the option to tune your car for the best performance — adjusting the engine, gearbox, turbine pressure, wheel angle, and more — it's easy to find yourself losing several hours to this game. This isn't just your average racing game though, as here tire pressure affects driving physics, and your car control varies depending on the surface you're driving on, from snow to sand and asphalt — so you'll need your wits about you. There's plenty of customization when it comes to visual auto-tuning too, and you can make your car unique by replacing mirrors, bumpers, lights, and adding rims and body kits. We love the multiplayer mode where you can compete to hit first place in the championships, and you can join car clubs or create your own to team up. It's free to play and you'll need to work hard to unlock new vehicles and buy upgrades for your car, so you can sink a lot of time into it. New cars and tracks are added regularly too, like the latest winter St Petersburg location. Google Play Tiny Room Stories: Town Mystery We all love a good mystery, and if you're looking for an immersive puzzle app to take your mind off real life right now, Tiny Room Stories: Town Mystery does the job nicely. You play as a private investigator who, after receiving a mysterious letter from his father, must return to his hometown only to find it completely deserted. It's up to you to find out what happened; discover clues; open locks; solve puzzles; and explore interactive, fully 3D levels along the way. This is one of the best detective story games available on Android — a cool blend of mystery and escape room. You'll explore a variety of locations too, from ancient catacombs to downtown cityscapes. Google Play Bloons TD 6 ($5) If you're a fan of tower defense games, where bad guys invade your map around a predetermined route and you have to erect destructive towers to wipe them out before they kill you, then you owe it to yourself to buy Bloons TD 6. With a cute and chaotic cartoon art style and hordes of bizarre enemies, things can get seriously crazy. The depth of your choice in how to defend is unsurpassed with dozens of towers, each with its own upgrade trees to climb. To mix things up, there are other defensive units you can deploy that will patrol, and there are loads of challenges that give you specific objectives and earn you money when you complete them. There are also some in-app purchases, but there's so much depth here that they're easy to ignore, making this a great strategy game to pass the time with.
